

Lead Service Lines

Frequently Asked Questions

Who Owns Water Service Lines?

The water service line is the pipe that connects your home to the City-owned water main. Water service lines are property of the homeowner, and homeowners are generally responsible for their upkeep.

Does The Department Plan To Replace Lead Service Lines?

The Department currently has a Lead Service Replacement Program that provides the opportunity of a $2,000 grant or a free water filter. Learn more about the Program. In 2019, AWD received $500,000 grant from the Department of Health for lead service replacement. These funds have been used to complete replacements in congruence with other active AWD infrastructure projects. Approximately 100 services were replaced with these funds.

Why Does The Department Need To Know What Material My Water Service Line Is?

Gathering information on where lead services are located within the City will help with our effort to eventually replace lead service lines. The information submitted is only to create an inventory to assist in program development.

If My Water Service Is Lead, Will I Be Required To Replace It?

No, homeowners have no obligation to replace lead water services on their own.

If My Water Service Is Lead, Should I Do Anything?

We suggest testing your tap water for lead. The Department of Health offers free lead testing. You can also take actions to help reduce your lead exposure in drinking water.

What If I Can't Determine The Material Of My Service Line Or Can't Use The Online Submission Form?

Please call 518-434-5300 to schedule an appointment with AWD staff to confirm your water service material.
